

THE IMPERFECTION OF EVIL

Fabio Clemente
Erasmo Scipione

Deep into St. Petersburg, Sergej is killed inside a gym. An unusual rituality and a list of suspects gather around the victim. Sergej is an oligarch who owns several fitness centres.

Sasha Reggiani, an Italian-Russian with a background in the 'Italian Secret Services' and a fitness centre instructor, is tasked with solving the case. Everyone has a reason to wish his own boss's death, but their alibis check out and there's no evidence against anyone of them. Even Sasha, a man with a troubled past and a devastated love life, could be the murderer, but Gribanov chooses to have him as his sidekick for the investigation: they become allies. In a dark moonlit St. Petersburg, through many twists and turns, the private life of the two protagonists is deepened, following the pace of the story until the inevitable ending. Even a brilliant, thorough assassin can make mistakes. In doing so, he makes his criminal plan imperfect.
